Paper 1 Business Concepts 1

May/June 2025MARK SCHEMEMaximum Mark: 40

Published

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge International will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge International is publishing the mark schemes for the May/June 2025 series for most Cambridge IGCSE, Cambridge International A and AS Level components, and some Cambridge O Level components.

This document consists of 35 printed pages.

PUBLISHEDGeneric Marking Principles

These general marking principles must be applied by all examiners when marking candidate answers. They should be applied alongside the specific content of the mark scheme or generic level descriptions for a question. Each question paper and mark scheme will also comply with these marking principles.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 1:

Marks must be awarded in line with:

- the specific content of the mark scheme or the generic level descriptors for the question
- the specific skills defined in the mark scheme or in the generic level descriptors for the question
- the standard of response required by a candidate as exemplified by the standardisation scripts.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 2:

Marks awarded are always whole marks (not half marks, or other fractions).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 3:

Marks must be awarded positively:

- marks are awarded for correct/valid answers, as defined in the mark scheme. However, credit is given for valid answers which go beyond the scope of the syllabus and mark scheme, referring to your Team Leader as appropriate
- marks are awarded when candidates clearly demonstrate what they know and can do
- marks are not deducted for errors
- marks are not deducted for omissions
- answers should only be judged on the quality of spelling, punctuation and grammar when these features are specifically assessed by the question as indicated by the mark scheme. The meaning, however, should be unambiguous.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 4:

Rules must be applied consistently, e.g. in situations where candidates have not followed instructions or in the application of generic level descriptors.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 5:

Marks should be awarded using the full range of marks defined in the mark scheme for the question (however; the use of the full mark range may be limited according to the quality of the candidate responses seen).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 6:

Marks awarded are based solely on the requirements as defined in the mark scheme. Marks should not be awarded with grade thresholds or grade descriptors in mind.

PUBLISHEDSocial Science-Specific Marking Principles
(for point-based marking)*1 Components using point-based marking:

- Point marking is often used to reward knowledge, understanding and application of skills. We give credit where the candidate's answer shows relevant knowledge, understanding and application of skills in answering the question. We do not give credit where the answer shows confusion.

From this it follows that we:

- a DO credit answers which are worded differently from the mark scheme if they clearly convey the same meaning (unless the mark scheme requires a specific term)
- b DO credit alternative answers/examples which are not written in the mark scheme if they are correct
- c DO credit answers where candidates give more than one correct answer in one prompt/numbered/scaffolded space where extended writing is required rather than list-type answers. For example, questions that require n reasons (e.g. State two reasons ...).
- d DO NOT credit answers simply for using a 'key term' unless that is all that is required. (Check for evidence it is understood and not used wrongly.)
- e DO NOT credit answers which are obviously self-contradicting or trying to cover all possibilities
- f DO NOT give further credit for what is effectively repetition of a correct point already credited unless the language itself is being tested. This applies equally to 'mirror statements' (i.e. polluted/not polluted).
- g DO NOT require spellings to be correct, unless this is part of the test. However spellings of syllabus terms must allow for clear and unambiguous separation from other syllabus terms with which they may be confused (e.g. Corrasion/Corrosion)

2 Presentation of mark scheme:

- Slashes (/) or the word 'or' separate alternative ways of making the same point.
- Semi colons (;) bullet points (•) or figures in brackets (1) separate different points.
- Content in the answer column in brackets is for examiner information/context to clarify the marking but is not required to earn the mark (except Accounting syllabuses where they indicate negative numbers).

3 Calculation questions:

- The mark scheme will show the steps in the most likely correct method(s), the mark for each step, the correct answer(s) and the mark for each answer
- If working/explanation is considered essential for full credit, this will be indicated in the question paper and in the mark scheme. In all other instances, the correct answer to a calculation should be given full credit, even if no supporting working is shown.
- Where the candidate uses a valid method which is not covered by the mark scheme, award equivalent marks for reaching equivalent stages.
- Where an answer makes use of a candidate's own incorrect figure from previous working, the 'own figure rule' applies: full marks will be given if a correct and complete method is used. Further guidance will be included in the mark scheme where necessary and any exceptions to this general principle will be noted.

4 Annotation:

- For point marking, ticks can be used to indicate correct answers and crosses can be used to indicate wrong answers. There is no direct relationship between ticks and marks. Ticks have no defined meaning for levels of response marking.
- For levels of response marking, the level awarded should be annotated on the script.
- Other annotations will be used by examiners as agreed during standardisation, and the meaning will be understood by all examiners who marked that paper.

Annotations guidance for centres

Examiners use a system of annotations as a shorthand for communicating their marking decisions to one another. Examiners are trained during the standardisation process on how and when to use annotations. The purpose of annotations is to inform the standardisation and monitoring processes and guide the supervising examiners when they are checking the work of examiners within their team. The meaning of annotations and how they are used is specific to each component and is understood by all examiners who mark the component.

We publish annotations in our mark schemes to help centres understand the annotations they may see on copies of scripts. Note that there may not be a direct correlation between the number of annotations on a script and the mark awarded. Similarly, the use of an annotation may not be an indication of the quality of the response.

The annotations listed below were available to examiners marking this component in this series.

Annotations

Annotation	Meaning
	Indicates a point which is relevant and rewardable.
	Indicates a point which is inaccurate/irrelevant and not rewardable.
	Indicates knowledge and understanding of the concepts and issues relating to the question.
	Indicates where application is made to an appropriate business context.
	Indicates where the answer has demonstrated analysis – questions 4, 5(a), 5(b), 6(a) and 6(b) .
	Indicates where the answer has demonstrated evaluation – (Section B Part (b) questions only).
	Used when the benefit of the doubt is given in order to reward a response.
	Used when the answer or parts of the answer are not answering the question asked.
	Used when parts of the answer are considered to be too vague
	Indicates that content has been recognised but not rewarded.

Guidance on using levels-based mark schemes

Marking of work should be positive, rewarding achievement where possible, but clearly differentiating across the whole range of marks, where appropriate.

The examiner should look at the work and then make a judgement about which level statement is the best fit. In practice, work does not always match one level statement precisely so a judgement may need to be made between two or more level statements.

Once a best-fit level statement has been identified, use the following guidance to decide on a specific mark:

- If the candidate's work convincingly meets the level statement, award the highest mark.
- If the candidate's work adequately meets the level statement, award the most appropriate mark in the middle of the range.
- If the candidate's work just meets the level statement, award the lowest mark.
- L1, L2 etc. must be clearly annotated on the response at the point where the level is achieved.

Assessment objectivesAO1 Knowledge and understanding

Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of business concepts, terms and theories.

AO2 Application

Apply knowledge and understanding of business concepts, terms and theories to problems and issues in a variety of familiar and unfamiliar business situations and contexts.

AO3 Analysis

Analyse business problems, issues and situations by:

- using appropriate methods and techniques to make sense of qualitative and quantitative business information
- searching for causes, impact and consequences
- distinguishing between factual evidence and opinion or value judgement
- drawing valid inferences and making valid generalisations.

AO4 Evaluation

Evaluate evidence in order to make reasoned judgements, present substantiated conclusions and, where appropriate, make recommendations for action and implementation.

Used for Q1(a), Q2(a) and Q3(a)

Two marks in total can be awarded for these questions. Ticks (✓) are used to show where the candidate has been given these marks.

AO1 Knowledge and understanding	Marks
Knowledge of the term that demonstrates a clear understanding of the term.	2	Indicated by 2 ✓✓ where appropriate in the answer

There are 3 marks for this question: 1 mark for K 2 marks for APP Indicative content Responses may include: AO1 Knowledge and understanding 1 mark K for identifying one disadvantage of using empowerment to motivate employees • Employees lack ability/experience to respond • Decisions are poorer • Business is less efficient • Employees become de-motivated • Employees more stressed • Some employees may leave. • Empowerment may not work/may not last	3

9609/11

Question	Answer	Marks
1(b)	AO2 Application 2 marks for developed APP of the disadvantage given 1 mark for limited APP of the disadvantage given • Employees may not be capable of taking more control of their work – might lead to de-motivated employees. • Empowerment may mean decisions are made by less experienced and less expert personnel – increasing the number of mistakes made and increasing risk. • May lead to decreased efficiency – autonomous employees may work independently and decide to work more slowly and/or work at the pace of the slowest – less collaboration and teamwork. • Relationships between managers and employees become blurred – boundaries of authority broken in a flatter, more streamlined structure – managers may lose control. • Employees stress increases, morale decreases in a preference for alternative forms of motivation. • Empowered employees become more attractive to competitors (risk of staff poaching). • May not work as some employees are only motivated by financial benefits e.g. bonus Accept all valid responses.

Question	Answer	Marks
2(a)	Define the term price discrimination. Indicative content Responses may include: AO1 Knowledge and understanding Clear understanding • The policy of selling the same product at different prices (1) to different buyers (1) Partial understanding • Selling a product at different prices (1) • Setting different prices for different people (1) Accept all valid responses.	2

2(b)	Explain one disadvantage to a business of using competitive pricing. There are 3 marks for this question: 1 mark for K 2 marks for APP Indicative content Responses may include: AO1 Knowledge and understanding 1 mark for identifying one disadvantage of using competitive pricing • Competitive pricing may mean a business makes a loss • Competitive pricing may force prices down/lower in the long turn • Could lead to business failure • Could lead to a price war • Could deflect a business from other objectives • May mean too much concern for competitor actions. • May lead to lower/less sales	3

Question	Answer	Marks
2(b)	AO2 Application 2 marks for developed APP of the disadvantage given 1 mark for limited APP of the disadvantage given • A business that sets prices solely on competitor prices might risk selling at a loss as it may not be able to cover its manufacturing costs or business overhead expenses. • Competing using competitor prices (lower) might give a competitive edge in the short term, only as competitors fight back with lower prices. • Could lead to lower profit margins and increase the risk of failure, especially true of businesses with few financial resources. • May be difficult and costly to discover competitor prices – need to hire pricing teams or purchasing automated competitor pricing monitoring tool. • Could lead to a price war and even if a business can sustain low prices, customers may see the low-price product as an inferior product. • A sole focus on competitive pricing might deflect a business from concerns for quality and added value. • Too much focus on competitor's prices may also mean too much time spent on competitors, to the detriment of insufficient time spent on internal issues such as strengthening its USP and competitive edge (other than price points). 4	Analyse one way a business might fail as a consequence of lack of finance. There are 5 marks for this question: 1 mark for K 2 marks for APP 2 marks for AN Indicative content Responses may include: AO1 Knowledge and understanding 1 mark for K identifying one way a business might fail due to lack of finance Inability to: • sustain cashflows • provide working capital • build up reserves • pay suppliers/variable costs • invest • obtain sources of finance • maintain quality/innovation/research and development • to recruit managers • bankruptcy/insolvency/administration/liquidity issues	5

9609/11

Question	Answer	Marks
4	AO2 Application 2 marks for developed APP of the chosen way identified 1 mark for limited APP of the chosen way given • A lack of finance may undermine a business's capacity to survive at various times and in various situation • Such as the inability to purchase essential equipment • An inability to cover day-to-day expenses (paying wages and suppliers) • An inability to build up reserves in times of recession • An inability to support essential growth and expansion plans. AO3 Analysis 2 marks for developed AN of the chosen way 1 mark for limited AN of the chosen way • Insufficient start-up finance can lead to early business failure – significant capital investment is likely to be needed to provide an adequate infrastructure for survival, e.g. purchase of adequate equipment, hire of appropriate labour, initial launch expenditure and publicity material. Without sufficient finance, such an initial set of essential requirements will not be met, resulting in the likely collapse of a business. • A business is likely to fail if it doesn't maintain adequate positive cash flows and sustain an adequate level of working capital. Poor financial management can lead to high inventory levels, an excessive number of debtors, and an inability to cover day-to-day activity expenses. If a business is unable to pay bills (especially suppliers) and pay employees, it will be unable to operate – businesses need to have several months of working capital in reserve as a buffer against delayed incoming payments. • A business to be successful may need to continuously expand and grow – develop new products and expand into new markets. This growth and expansion requires funding and without an effective financial structure in place, businesses that are unable to expand are at risk of being left behind by competitors and eventually failing. • Businesses need sufficient finance to respond to adverse economic conditions – unexpected recessions and depressions – the progress of any business is rarely linear – sufficient finance is needed for a business to survive challenging times – a lack of contingency finance can result in business failure. Accept all valid responses.

5(b)	‘Intrapreneurship is the most important factor that will ensure the success of a computer entertainment business.’ Evaluate this view. There are 12 marks for Q5(b) 2 marks for K 2 marks for APP 2 marks for AN 6 marks for EVAL Indicative content Responses may include: AO1 Knowledge and understanding 2 marks for developed knowledge and understanding L2 K 1 mark for limited knowledge and understanding L1 K • Intrapreneurs are part of a business system and environment that allows employees to act like entrepreneurs within a business, who promote new ideas, inspire creativity, and take proactive steps to improve business operations – a source of innovation within an organisation. • The risks taken by intrapreneurs are absorbed by the business as the formal and informal structures and processes are exploited by intrapreneurs to introduce new ideas, carve out new paths, initiate new ventures and drive organisational change. • The success of a business refers to an ability to survive the uncertainty and volatility of business environments and continue to exist as a viable, productive and sustainable business organisation. • There are many factors that might lead to success e.g. marketing, finance, operations, HRM	12

Question	Answer	Marks
5(b)	AO2 Application 2 marks for developed application/context L2 APP 1 mark for limited application/context L1 APP - As the lifespan of the average business organisation continues to shrink, even the most resilient and successful businesses who apply sound business management principles to operations, are not immune to gradual erosion of their positions of growth and dominance. - Intrapreneurs are seen to have the skillset to challenge the ‘business as usual’ mindset and so allow a business to respond to the disruptive changes in the external market environment by inducing change in the organisational internal environment. - It is increasingly recognised that ‘business as usual’ operating decisions and procedures are no guarantee of ‘ongoing success for a business’. In order to succeed in local, national or global markets, it is asserted that it is necessary to develop new products and do business better and faster than competitors. These developments, it is argued, require distinctive organisational cultures within which intrapreneurs have a vital role to play. - Computer entertainment businesses use computers to allow us to watch movies online, play games online, act as virtual entertainers in playing games, listening to music, videos can be fed from computers to full screen TVs. - Computers have a major effect on the entertainment industry- using technology/software to create striking special effects in movies, creation of animated features and creation of multi-media presentations.

Question	Answer	Marks
5(b)	AO3 Analysis 2 marks for developed analysis L2 AN 1 mark for limited analysis L1 AN • Ongoing success may well depend on ‘going back to the garage’ – Steve Jobs, – to recapture the innovative and creative spirit of the past – there is severe competition and new starters abound in the computer entertainment market. • The impact of an intrapreneur can lead to the re-invention of a business – any delay in such re-invention can increase the risk of a business failing – intrapreneurs can drive this reinvention, e.g. change a letter-delivery business to a parcel-delivery business – the British Post Office is cited as an example where the ongoing success has been put at risk with too little intrapreneurial impact on strategic decisions. • Intrapreneurs can generate new ideas and identify new business opportunities and detect success-threatening problems. They can critically evaluate existing organisational and market structures, make use of existing sound commercial infrastructures, sales networks, and financial stability to develop new products and make existing ones more competitive. • Intrapreneurs can provide a longevity to business operations and stimulate new growth opportunities if they can inculcate intrapreneurial thinking and behaviour among managers and employees. • Sony Playstation happened as a junior employee tinkered with his daughter’s Nintendo to improve the sound quality – this tinkering convinced Sony of the value of computer gaming systems – Sony now has 2/3rds of market share of the console operating system market. • Agile companies create and support intrapreneurial cultures to ensure that the business does not become too comfortable with past success – the focus is not so much on next quarter’s profit as the next decade’s worth of revenue growth. • Intrapreneurship is encouraged and supported to ensure that there is a focus on the future (technological developments and consumer trends) – a focus on ‘emerging business/product opportunities’. • Intrapreneurship is mainstream as intrapreneurs are supported with capital and allowed to take advantage of the existing customer base, cross-functional expertise, the brand name, the business infrastructure, the stability of a corporate job, and mentorship and guidance. • Intrapreneurs provide the skills for recognising and solving important problems within a business and have the independence and authority to suggest changes for planning the future of a business – they determine methods for staying ahead of the competition and in so doing, contribute to the ongoing survival and success of a business.

6(a)	Analyse two ways international markets may present different challenges to a business than national markets. There are 8 marks in total for Q6(a) 4 marks for each of the ways international markets may present different challenges to a business than national markets. These 4 marks consist of 1 mark for K 1 mark for APP 2 marks for AN Indicative content Responses may include: AO1 Knowledge and understanding 1 K mark for identifying one way international markets may present different challenges to a business than national markets Repeat this for a second identified way. NOTE: International markets are global markets outside the international borders of a business's country of citizenship – people and businesses from different nations and sharing different cultures may compete in an international market. National market is a domestic market for goods and services operating within the borders of, and governed by, the regulations of a particular country. A business is likely to be more familiar with trading relationships and regulations and there is likely less risk, uncertainty and complexity when operating in a national market.	8

6(a)	Ways may include: • International markets may present language challenges to business entrants • International markets may have business cultures that do not match national market expectations • Operating in an international market may require more expertise, competence and special management skills • Competition is likely to be tough and intense in international markets • International markets may present more high-risk challenges to businesses, such as political volatility, changing fashion, etc • International markets may require acceptance of different tariff and non-tariff constraints and local laws and policies AO2 Application 1 mark for APP of the chosen way. Repeat this for a second identified way. • International markets may present language challenges to business entrants – many languages may be used. • International markets may have business cultures that do not match national market expectations, e.g. in respect of religion, dress codes, working hours, personal space and facility, and gift giving. An ability to recognise, respect and adapt to these differences may reduce your ability to succeed in an international market. • Operating in an international market may require more expertise, competence and special management skills to deal with the more complex circumstances and situations like changes in the strategies of governments and the mindsets of customers. • Competition is likely to be tough and intense in international markets – global competition involves competition not only with competitors from home countries, but also with competitors from foreign lands. • International markets may present more high-risk challenges to businesses, such as political volatility, changing fashion trends, sudden war situations, changing government regulations, and communication barriers. • International markets may require acceptance of different tariff and non-tariff constraints and local laws and policies enforced in different nations – business relationships may involve complexity and lengthy time dimensions.

6(b)	AO2 Application 2 marks for developed application/context L2 APP 1 mark for limited application/context L1 APP - Marketing no longer restricted to developing, selling, and delivering products and services. CRM sees this definition of marketing as too restrictive – effective marketing needs to be relationship orientated. - Investment into CRM systems is considered to be essential and more effective than transactional marketing for the long-term health of all businesses. - The marketing concept of using a relational software database to gather data on customer transactions for use in marketing and sales programmes has been developed and expanded into company-wide CRM systems – initially sophisticated technology orientated systems developed in/for large businesses to create, manage, and organise data in a way that drives sales and revenue through creating connections and long-term relationships. - More recently, small business CRM systems have been devised to enhance the small business customer experience with a focus on social relationships and personal care programmes that foster customer commitment and builds trust between a business and its customers. - Small businesses are often partnerships, sole proprietorships, or private limited companies - Have relatively small numbers of employees, relatively low annual revenue/turnover, few human resources, and low up-front capital (vary between ‘micro’ businesses with less than 10 employees/turnover less than £2m – ‘small’ businesses with 10–50 employees and £2–10m turnover, to MSE’s with 50–250 employees and £50–250m turnover)

6(b)	AO3 Analysis 2 marks for developed analysis L2 AN 1 mark for limited analysis L1 AN The benefits of CRM programmes are said to include the following: - • The possibility of selling more – returning customers tend to purchase more than first-time customers as a consequence of a stronger relationship. • CRM acts as an advertising method for a product – customers satisfied with a product leave good reviews and communicate to others positive experiences. • Loyal customers created by CRM tend to purchase new and upcoming products due to positive experiences in the past – saving advertising costs. • CRM forces a business and brand to focus on long-term goals rather than short-term success. • CRM, in developing a personal relationship with the customer, helps create a viral positive one-to-one marketing. • CRM provides opportunities to solve problems immediately -opportunity to repair product failures – problem-solving via the customer service communications to Twitter accounts or person visits The limitations of CRM are said to include the following: • The primary limitation is said to be cost – it leads to higher costs per individual customer, with no guarantee of a quick return. • CRM software is often designed to meet the needs of large businesses – can be daunting for smaller businesses lacking the staff time and financial resources. • Even simple CRM systems are expensive – investment costs are high – may be inaccessible to a small business. • CRM raises the expectations of customers – time and resource consuming – it takes many transactions to establish a trusting relationship that garners results. • CRM likely to require a significant change in business culture and employee roles – the change from a product centric business to a customer/client end user centric business is a demanding one – there may be resistance to change, e.g. IT moves from a customer supportive role to a customer enabling role. • CRM may treat new customers as a secondary commodity – CRM focus is on retaining and supporting the current customer base – new customers could be overlooked or ignored.
