Section BAnswer one question.

- 2 In March 2016, the United Kingdom government announced that it will introduce a ‘sugar tax’ on the producers of fizzy soft drinks in order to reduce child obesity.
- (a) Using an example of each, explain the differences between direct progressive taxes and indirect regressive taxes. [8]
- (b) Discuss whether a sugar tax or an educational campaign on healthy eating is more likely to reduce child obesity. [12]
- 3 In 2015, it was reported that the global demand for chocolate was projected to increase but it was unlikely that the global supply of cocoa beans, required to produce chocolate, would increase.
- (a) State and explain two factors of production needed for the manufacture of chocolate. Explain the benefits of specialisation in the manufacture of chocolate. [8]
- (b) Analyse the likely effects on the global price of chocolate of the reported changes in 2015. Discuss the most effective way that the price of chocolate might be stabilised. [12]
- 4 (a) Explain the main causes of changes in the general price level in your country, or any other country with which you are familiar. [8]
- (b) Discuss whether monetary policy alone is the best way for a government to correct inflation. [12]
