Entries from the Travellers' Directory Through Ireland written by William Wilson (1786)

Skibbereen is a ſmall market-Town, where the collector, ſurveyor, and other officers of the port of Baltimore reſide. On the weſt ſide of the river, is a new-erected church, and in the town a decent market-houſe. The river Hen runs through the place, over which there is a ſtone bridge, but ſo low, as to be ſometimes overflown with floods. The cloathing trade is followed in this place. They have alſo ſome ſhare of the linen manufacture, particularly for ſtriped linens and handkerchiefs.

Moira is a well laid out, thriving village, conſiſting of one broad ſtreet, chiefly inhabited by dealers, who carry on the linen manufacture very conſiderably. At the N. E. end of the town is a handſome, well planted, and full grown avenue, leading to the ſuperb and beautiful ſeat of the Earl of Moira. The plantations and gardens here are very extenſive; the garden is adorned with a handſome labyrinth, ponds, canals and woods.

Within a mile of Swanlinbar, on the R. are the ruins of a church; and 4 miles beyond, on the L. is Florence-Court, the ſuperb ſeat of Lord Viſc.[1] Enniſkillen. It is delightfully ſituated on a riſing ground. The houſe has been built about 24 years, and was erected on the ſcite of a former one. In the rere the offices are diſpoſed in a ſweep. His Lordſhip's anceſtors removed hither from the caſtle of Enniſkillen about ſeventy years ſince; before which time this part of the country was unimproved.

***

Cork contains about 8,600 houſes, and upwards of 70,000 inhabitants. It hath twelve companies of foot quartered in the barracks. Beſides a ſtately cathedral, built from the foundation, between 1725 and 1735, by the produce of a duty upon coals, it is adorned with ſeveral handſome pariſh churches. It has alſo an elegant exchange for the merchants, a new and beautiful cuſtom-houſe, a town-hall, ſeveral fine hoſpitals, and various other public ſtructures. The city poſſeſſes an annual revenue of about 1300l[2], out of which the mayor enjoys for his ſalary and the ſupport of his dignity 500l[2]. The wealth and grandeur of Cork ariſe from its capacious and commodious haven, where almoſt any number of ſhips may lie with eaſe and ſafety. According to ſome accounts, when there has been no war, 1200 veſſells have reſorted hither in a year.

[1] Viſc: an abbreviation for 'Viscount' – a British man of high social rank
[2] 1300l, 500l: quantities of Irish currency
